Lebed warns of bloodshed if OSCE proposal approved

YEREVAN (Noyan Tapan)- A number of media outlets recently published General Alexander Lebeds letter addressed to the OSCE Minsk Conference Co-Chairmen Valentin Lo-zinsky, Strobe Talbot and Jacques Blot.

Voicing fear that the willingness to settle the situation in Nagorno-Karabakh as soon as possible could prompt the simplest solution, that is a full support of the principle of maintaining Karabakh within Azeri borders and subordina tion of Armenians in Nagorno Karabakh to Azeri authorities, Lebed pointed out that this solution is almost unconscionable.

"Theres going to be much blood, but no peace. The conflict between Armenians and Azeris has too deep roots to be resolved by openly giving preference to either of the sides." Lebed commented in his letter.

"In 1921 the Caucasian Bureau of the Russian Communist Party (Bolsheviks) sacri-ficed the fate of the Karabakh people in the interests of the world revolution. Yielding to a temptation to impose your will on the Armenian people in a similar way, you will achieve only one thing the resumption of large-scale hostilities".

In Lebeds opinion, "in case the war re-sumes in Karabakh, there will be a real danger for the neighboring countries to get involved in it, in the first place for Russia and Turkey. Instead of speeding up the process of developing the Caspian oil, which is the major reason for your decision, as far as I can see, you may obtain quite an opposite effect."

Lebed offered the co-chairmen "a more circumstantial, albeit not so quick way of seeking mutually acceptable decisions on the basis of international law that was admitted as a basis for the conflict settlement by all three parties to the Karabakh conflict, that is the way of accepting the generally recognized right to self-deter-mination of nations."

The General referred to the example of Chechnya. "Confirm your loyalty to the UN Charter, do recommend the sides to submit their juridical dispute for an impartial judicial or arbitrate inquiry. There are decisions in the world practice which are known to have ensured the peaceful co-existence of conflicting nations. Thus, the status of a self-governed associated country or a more traditional status of a subject of federation...Dont hasten to put a nice full-stop by your own hand.

'Give that right to the parties concerned. Dont let yourselves be gone with the role of almighty judges. Do remain impartial negotiators." the letter concluded.

Armenian population grown 5 times since 1920

YEREVAN (Hayots Ashkhar) Representative of the Armenian Ministry of Health Care Karine Saribekian made a report, dedicated to the demographic situation in Armenia at the UNDP seminar dedicated to the World Population.

According to the report, 750 thousand individuals lived in Armenia in 1920 (low num-bers resulted from the attempted annihilation of Armenians at the hands of Turks), today the figure Snark) Pollution has caused health experts concerns in Yerevan in recent months, said head of the Environment Monitoring Center, Ministry of Environment Protection Tamara Ohannesian.

Ohannesian said that monitoring revealed significant excess of such pollutants as nitrogen oxide, carbon monoxide, and benzoa. One of the main sources of pollution are transportation vehicles. Passenger transportation is among the most profitable businesses in Armenia today, and competition is very high. At the same time, technical condition of vehicles receives little attention. Concentration of dust in

Ter Petrossian sees OSCE plan as compromise base

YEREVAN (Noyan Tapan) Speaking at the ninth Armenian National Movement Congress. Fer Petrossian said that the OSCE Minsk Group co-chairmen made the parties to the Karabakh conflict some proposals which can serve as a base for a compromise.

He said he could not say anything about those proposals, because following a mutual agreement the conflicting sides and mediators reached the negotiations must be conducted in conditions of secrecy. "Secrecy does not necessarily mean a plot. Secrecy is always needed in conducting complex negotiations," he noted.

At the same time he added that "as soon as the parties to the conflict reach a consensus, and before an agreement is signed, the details of that agreement will be made public in Armenia, Karabakh and Azerbaijan.

"The only thing I can tell is that Armenia will never sign any agreement that is not signed by Karabakh," Levon Ter Petrossian said.

The discussions on the settlement of the Karabakh conflict between the co-Chairmen of the OSCE Minsk group and the parties to the conflict will continue during the Co-Chairmens forthcoming tour to the region scheduled for Wednesday.

Declining to comment on the program submitted by the co-Chairmen of the OSCE Minsk Group, he pointed out that the parties to the conflict and the co-Chairmen had agreed on holding confidential discussions at this stage of negotiations.

Zoryan Institute acquires genocide archives unknown for a century

Cambridge, MA (18/7/97)--Recently, the Zoryan acquired a large collection of archives related to the Armenian Genocide that was unknown to the world for almost a century. The archival collection of Royal and Lizzie Cole, American missionaries in Turkish Armenia and Kurdistan in the years 1868-1908, documents events and developments in Turkish Armenia spanning over four extraordinary decade presents accounts, and stories ver heard before and provides additional details for the history of the Armenian massacres.

The Cole Collection consists of over 10.000 densely written journal pages, letters, lectures, reports, observations, handdrawn charts and maps, with some 500 photographic prints and 400 negatives. The Cole Collection chronicles the mass of Armenians starting in the 1890's and provides rich portrait of Armenian life in the 19th century. The immensity of the resources provided by this Collec-tion will impact the study of genocide for decades to come.

Dear Friends

Once again we are gathered together to commemorate a sad and tragic chapter in your people's history. The invasion of Cyprus is the latest chapter in the Ottoman and Turkish government's history of genocide, slaughter, plunder and bloodshed

Unfortunately, because of the international community's silence, Turkey is still enjoying, after 23 years, the fruits of its unlawful action. Furthermore, they have been changing the demographic composition of the oc-cupied sector of Cyprus by transferring and relocating Turks, Aze-ris, Afghans and other Turkish speaking people, in violation of the international law

As a representative of a na-tion who has felt first hand the evils of the Turkish government, and on behalf of the one and a half million innocent Armenian the world to punish Turkey and restore justice to the people who had the misfortune of being con-mility, must be held accountable for its crimes. Unless the civilized people of the world act right away to put an end to the bru-tality of the Turkish Government, other nations will suffer from the same atrocities that our two nations experienced.

US Ministry of Agriculture to promote import of Armenian wines

YEREVAN (Noyan Tapan) The US Ministry of Agriculture will promote the import of Armenian wines "Noravank", "Getap" and "Areni."

The "Areni" will be imported into Ohio starting September, reported the USDA advisor on marketing Willy Brown. These wines were selected at a wine-tasting initiated by the US Ministry of Agriculture. Seven wines produced at the most well-known wineries of Armenia and two French wines were presented. Armenian wines "Nora-vank," "Getap," "Areni" and

"Arevshat" won the first four place prizes.

The tasters, representatives of embassies and foreigners working at international organizations, were surprised, be-cause the well-known French wines "Cabernet" and "Bordeaux" earned only the 6th and 9th places respectively.

According to Brown, the US Ministry of Agriculture to-gether with the "Armenian Farmer" association is implementing a project to export fruit from Armenia, Apricot exports to Dubai are already underway.

US Gold Venture shares in Armenia sold to Canada

YEREVAN (Azg) -Global Gold company of the US sold its share in the Global Gold Armenia joint venture to the Canadian

First Dynasty Mines. According to US Ambas-sador Peter Tomsen, this Canadian company will continue ope-rations on implementation of corresponding activities in Armenia. The American side was going to implement a new technology of go ld processing from the wastes of the gold mines. Curren-tly existing technologies would allow to extract up to 50 percent of gold contained in the wastes.

As a result, 70 percent clean gold is produced.

Hence, another plant will be built in Armenia, consuming four types of raw materials (men tioned 70 percent gold, wastes of the jewelry plant, wastes of the copper melting plants, and wastes of the electronic industry, to produce a high quality 99.99 carat gold.)

One third of the final production will belong to Armenia, two thirds-to the US side. It is expected to extract 7,000 ounces of gold by the end of 1997, 24 thousand ounces in 1998.

NATO impressed by Armenian scientists' research

YEREVAN (Noyan Tapan) Armenian scientists' research programs presented at NATO's scientific-technical forum "Science for Peace" in Portugal were generally praised for their innovative approaches, president of Armenia's National Academy of Sciences Fadey Sargssian said. Despite all the difficulties of the transition period, Armenia's scientists managed to introduce ten programs at the forum which attracted great interest on the part of NATO experts. According to Sargssian, these works are not of military and secret nature. They are mainly related to the sphere of applied research, for instance, the rationale use of water and electri-city, seismic researches. As reported by Sargssian, NATO stimulates transformation of those re-search programs designed for military sphere.

Sargssian noted that NA-TO Science-Technical Council still shows interest toward scien tific research conducted in former USSR states. And it is not accidental that besides NATO experts, representatives of the US, Canada, Eastern Europe, the forum was attended by representatives of CIS and Baltics.

The main achievement of the forum, according to Sargssian, was the discussion of joint scientific work not only within NATO, but also countries-participants of the forum, strengthening of already existing, as well as es-tablishment of new ties.

Ecevit threatens to annex Northern Cyprus

ANKARA (Reuter)- Turkey's deputy prime minister said on Tuesday, July 15, that if the European Union went ahead with planned membership talks with Cyprus, Turkey would have no choice but to unite with the northern half of the island.

"If the EU doesn't change its attitude, Turkey and the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus cannot avoid integration, Anatolian news agency quoted leftist Bulent Ecevit as saving. The EU has promised to begin Cyprus membership talks next year.

Ankara says allowing Cyto join before a solutio the divided island would be a one-sided move that ignored the wishes of the Turkish north and reinforced the current divisions between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. The Turkish state in the north, proclaimed in 1983, is recognized only by Ankara.

The island has been divided since 1974 when Turkey invaded the northern section.

Rev. Royal M. Cole and his wife Lizzie Cobleigh Cole served as Congregationalist missionaries for forty years in 19th cen-tury Turkish Armenia and Kurdistan, under the sponsorship of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. The Coles arrived at Erzeroum in August 1868, during the reign of Sultan Abdulaziz. Over the next sixteen years, Rev. and Mrs. Cole were engaged in medical and famine relief work, and the building and maintenance of educational institutions at Erzeroum.

In 1884, Rev. Cole assumed the position of Director of the American Mission at Bitlis, organizing extensive relief assistance throughout the province (particularly following the widespread massacre of Armenians in many locations across this vilayet in August 1894), and directing a number of schools and orphanages there. In May 1908, ten months before the deposal of Abdulhamid II, the Coles retired to the United States.

Rev. Cole was referred to frequently by British consular officers and ambassadors in a number of communications published in the British Blue Book, particularly in the years 1894 through 1904. He was alluded to by name or as a 'trusted source in Bitlis,' occasionally as 'the missionary at Bitlis', and even as one of 'the missionaries at Sasun'.

Mark Malicoat, a great-grandson of Rev. Royal Cole and a scholar who has studied the Collection, pointed out: "The Cole Collection affords a unique contribution to questions surrounding a number of important events which occurred in the Bitlis and Van provinces during the vears 1894-1904. It also affirms the motives of the Ottoman government's anti-Armenian operations and shows the scope of these actions, which are signi-ficantly larger than has hitherto been established"

The Cole Collection was purchased for $100,000. The initial steps to acquire the archives were led by Kourken Sarkissian, President of Zoryan Institute Canada, who, together with Prof. Vahakn Dadrian, went to Portland, Oregon, in May, to see and evaluate the collection.

Prof. Saul Negoghosian of University of Toronto was instrumental in introducing the hol-der of the archives to the Institute.

In early June, Zoryan's new Director Hratch Tchilingirian joined the negotiation pros. On June 28, the acquisition of the Collection was finalized and the archives were brought to the Zoryan Institute.

The Splendor of Art and the Armenian Nation

Jean-Michel Thierry, in his introduction on Armenian Art says: "We know about the civilization of the Armenians, and recent studies have allowed us to outline its essential characteristics.

"Perhaps the most important of these is its permanence and longevity, despite the historical and territorial vagaries of this people. From the 4th to the 18th century, Armenians resisted invasion and absorption, relaying through its art one of the most beautiful manifestations of its identity. This land. overwhelmed by disaster, halfway between East and West, has produced remarkable and original architecture, paintings and carvings whose quality and importance are comparable to the most celebrated of Western styles."

In New York City, at the Metropolitan Museum of Art since March 11 and up to July 6, 1997, the "Glory of Byzantium", featuring more than 350 masterpieces in all media form the museums and church treasures of more than 20 countries is exhibited. Philippe de Montebello, Director of the Metropolitan Museum, has stated: "The Glory of Byzantium, will illuminate in dazzling intensity the complex currents that characterized the Middle Byzantine centuries. The exhibition brings to the public an awareness of the culture of a now-lost empire and its influence for beyond its borders..."

Of the masterpieces incorporated from around the world, there are six of Armenian origin. Among them: "Book of Ordinations", "The Gospels of Adrianople", "The Trebizond Gospels", "Psalter leaf with Moses and the Law" and lastly two Bifolia from the Canon Tables of the Zey'tun Gospels, by the scribe Toros Roslin.

Senate-House Conference Will Decide Critical Bill for Armenia, Karabagh

WASHINGTON, DC - Work House and Senate versions of the critical to Armenian-American interests begins in earnest shortly in Washington when the Senate and House Conference Committee meets to reconcile differences in the FY 1998 Foreign Aid Bill, the Armenian Assembly of America reported last week. While both versions of the Bill contain provisions favorable to Armenia, there is no guarantee that those provisions will be included in the final Bill. Conference Committee members will work together behind closed doors to hammer out the final version.

P.O. Box 5390, GLENDALE, CA 91221

The Armenian Assembly supports the following measures in the Foreign Aid Bill: a $95 million earmark for direct aid to Armenia in the Senate version and retention of Section 907 restrictions on U.S. economic assistance to Azerbaijan until that country's blockades of Armenia and Nagorno Karabagh are lifted in the House version. Unlike the Senate version, the House also includes provisions, strongly supported by the Assembly, that allow for direct humanitarian aid via nongovernmental organizations to refugees, displaced persons, and other needy civilians in conflict zones throu-

Shedding Additional Light on Genocide

Zorvan Institute Buys Previously Unknown Cache of Documents

CAMBRIDGE, MA - The Zoryan Institute acquired a large collection of archives related to the Armenian Genocide that was unknown to the world for almost a century. The archival collection of Royal and Lizzie Cole, American missionaries in Turkish Armenia and Kurdistan in the years 1868-1908, documents events and developments in Turkish Armenia

ANM Selects Siradeghyan As Chairman

GIIIMRI - Yerevan Mayor Vano Siradeghyan was selected last week . by the leadership of the Armenian National Movement to be its new party leader.

Following the conclusion of the ninth congress of the ANM on July 13, the ruling party's 40-person board elected Siradeghyan as its new chairman to succeed Ter-Husik Lazaryan, Noyan Tapan reported.

Siradeghyan, whose candidacy to head the ruling party was endorsed by President Levon Ter-Petrossian, was one of the members of the Karabagh Committee, who led the popular movement for independence from the Soviet Union spanning over four decades, presents accounts, and stories never heard before and provides additional details for the history of the Armenian massacres.

The Cole Collection consists of over 10,000 densely written journal pages, letters, lectures, reports, observations, hand-drawn charts and maps, with some 500 photographic prints and 400 negatives. The Cole Collection chronicles the cres of Armenians starting in the 1890s and provides a rich portrait of Armenian life in the 19th century. The immensity of the resources provided by this Collection will impact the study of genocide for decades to come, Zoryan officials said.

Rev. Royal M. Cole and his wife Lizzie Cobleigh Cole served as Congregationalist missionaries for forty years in 19th century Turkish Armenia and Kurdistan, under the sponsorship of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. The Coles arrived at Erzeroum in August 1868, during the reign of Sultan Abdulaziz. Over the next sixteen years, Rev. and Mrs. Cole were engaged in medical and famine relief work, and the building and maintenance of educational institutions at Erzeroum. In 1884, Rev. Cole assumed the position of Director of the American Mission at Bitlis, organizing extensive relief assistance

Split Forms In Armenia's Ruling Party

VOL. XL, No. 3, THURSDAY, July 24, 1997

YEREVAN - Indicating a split in Armenia's ruling party, Eduard Yegoryan, a former leader of the Armenian Pan-National Movement, told journalists in Yerevan last week that he intends to form a new parliamentary faction, reported the Yerevan Bureau of Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty. He is the chairman of the parliamentary commission on state and legal affairs.

Yegoryan said he has resigned from the ruling board of the Armenian Pan-National Movement, to which he was elected on July 13, and that he no longer considers himself a member of the movement. He said he is ready to cooperate with any opposition party, and will do everything in his power to prevent the movement from winning the next parliamentary and presidential elections.

Yegoryan said that more than one-third of the APNM's members support him, Noyan Tapan reported

Armenian Gets Post in Turkish Political Partv

ISTANBUL --- Marking a historical first in modern Turkey's political life, an Armenian was admitted as a member of Bulent Ecevit's Democratic-Socialist Party's Istanbul Committee last month

Armenians in Turkey are rarely allowed to take part in political affairs. Moreover, since the 1915 genocide of Armenians, which included the murders of close to 15 Armenian members of the then-Ottoman Parliament, no Armenian has sought election to high political office in Turkey.

The inclusion of Varoujan Sayadjian as a member of Ecevit's Istanbul Committee is a novelty in Turkey.

Savadiian was born in 1943 in Istanbul and attended the Bezjian Armenian School and later the Getronagan school.

Ecevit, who was recently named the Deputy Prime Minister in Mesut Yilmaz's new government, was the Prime Minister who ordered the invasion of Cyprus in 1974

Karabian Awarded Etchmiadzin's St. Gregory's Medal on June 29

LOS ANGELES - Longtime community benefactor and activist, former Majority Leader of the California Assembly Walter Karabian received one of the highest honors of the Armenian Church, the St. Gregory the Illuminator Medal, as promulgated by Catholicos Karekin I of Etchmiadzin, and presented on June 29 by Archbishop Vatche Hovsepian during the Divine Liturgy at the St. John Garabed Armenian Church in Hollywood.

The son of the honoree, crossbearer Benjamin Karabian, headed the procession of the Parish Council into the Church, followed by Ryan Doheny and Migirdich Menzilcian

Primate, Archbishop Hovsepian read the Catholicosal Encyclical in Armenian, while Benjamin Karabian read it in English, followed by the bestowing of the Medal on the honoree. A small replica was also presented to Walter Karabian's wife, Laurel: The Archbishop congratulated the couple and embraced them both.

ANCA, Armenian Assembly Join Forces to Protest Alivev's US Visit

WASHINGTON, DC - The Armenian Assembly of America and the Armenian National Committee of America have joined forces to protest the scheduled visit of Azeri President Heidar Aliyev, to the White House next month. The visit is scheduled for August 1

In a rare show of support and unity, the two Armenian-American organizations, which often go their own separate ways in efforts to foster understanding of Armenian-American issues, have come together in his effort.

The Armenian Assembly addressed a sharply worded letter to President Clinton, calling upon the President to rescind the invitation because of Aliyev's vicious anti-Armenian record and human rights abuses

The Assembly's ARAMAC grassroots network organized a nationwide letter-writing campaign to President Clinton to protest the visit

The Armenian National Committee has printed thousands of postcards ready to be signed and mailed to the White House. The cards feature a photo of Aliyev under the heading "Former KGB General" and "Brutal Dictator.' The Assembly and the ANC have been distributing these postcards cards widely to their members.

Both organizations are urging Armenian Americans to write to the president, urging him to rescind the Aliyev invitation and to support a just settlement of the Karabagh conflict - one which respects human rights in the region, including the rights of Armenians in Karabagh to self-determination.

- Letters can be addressed to President Bill Clinton, The White House, Washington, DC 20500.

Abp. Hovsepian gave a brief history of the Armenian Church and the life of St. Gregory the Illuminator. The archbishop also expressed his personal pleasure at having known and associated with Karabian for many years.

At the conclusion of his remarks, the Primate informed the congregation that Walter and Lauren Karabian pledged $100,000 to the Western Diocese Endowment Fund, in addition to an earlier contribution of $100,000 to the construction of the Cathedral's main altar.

During his own remarks, Karabian acknowledged his late fatherin-law, Arshag Dickranian, and his mother-in-law, Eleanor, for their exemplary commitment to the Armenian Cause. He also thanked his wife, Laurel, for being an "active and cooperative participant in all I have done."

After the church ceremonies, Archbishop Hovsepian hosted a luncheon in honor of the Karabians in the church's Kazanjian Hall to over 200 guests.

Karabagh Peace Plan

Pres. Ter-Petrossian Says OSCE's New Plan to Remain Secret Until Approval

YEREVAN — Armenian President Levon Ter-Petrossian said last week that chairmen of the OSCE Minsk group have offered a compromise plan for the settlement of the Nagorno-Karabagh conflict. Ter-Petrossian did not give any details of the plan, saying they are to remain confidential for the time being.

Addressing the ninth congress of the Armenian ruling party, the Armenian National Movement (ANM) during its July 13 closing session, he said the purpose of secrecy of the Minsk group plan is to protect it from propaganda assaults from forces opposed to the peace deal.

The Armenian president said that the plan will be made public after agreement is reached between the conflicting parties. He added that before signing any treaty, the peoples of Armenia, Karabakh and Azerbaijan will have a chance to express their opinion on the peace plan.

Ter-Petrossian said that Armenia will never sign the document without having Nagorno-Karabagh's signature on it.

Claiming that unidentified foreign forces are supporting the political opposition in Armenia, Pres. Ter-Petrossian also used the occasion to criticize the opposition for trying to de-stabilize the country.

Baku Proposes Additions

Karabagh Mediation

MOSCOW - Azerbaijan has proposed additions to the latest eace plan submitted by the cochairmen of the Organization for Cooperation and Security in Europe's Minsk Group to the leaderships of Armenia, Azerbaijan, and Nagorno-Karabagh in May, Russian agencies reported.

The co-chairmen met in Baku on July 18 with Azerbaijani President Heidar Aliyev. Azerbaijani presidential adviser Vafa Guluzade said Azerbaijan will never give up the towns of Lachin (located outside Karabagh but currently under Armenian control) and Shushi, but that it will agree to the continued use of the Lachin transit corridor, which is the sole overland link between Nagorno-Karabagh and Armenia

ANCA Testifies in State Senate In Support of Public Safety Bill

SACRAMENTO- Vicken Sonentz-Papazian, the Executive Director of the Armenian National Committee of America, Western Region (ANCA-WR), testified before the California State Senate Committee on Public Safety on July 15. He spoke in support of AB 1457, the Multilingual Outreach Program which would allocate funds for the Glendale Police Department to extend its outreach into the local Armenian American community.

Author of the legislation, California State Assemblyman Scott Wildman who represents the Glendale, Los Angeles and Burbank area, introduced the bill at the request of local law enforcement agencies. They had reported an increase of organized criminal activity targeting Armenian immigrants and Armenian owned-bus

AB 1457 enables the Glendale Police Department to develop and direct a program which, in addition to establishing a toll free "hotline" staffed full time by both Armenianand English-speaking operators, includes an educational component to increase public awareness of services provided by local law enforcement and to encourage victims of extortion and other crimes to seek assistance, coordination of organized crime fighting efforts with the police departments of Fresno and Los Angeles. and enhanced witness protection measures.

The Senate Public Safety Committee, whose members include several staunch supporters of Armenian issues, including Senators Adam Schiff and Richard Polanco, also heard testimony in support of AB 1457 from Chahe Keuroghlian, Public Information Officer from the Glendale Police Department.

The legislation, co-sponsored by a host of legislators, including

Assemblyman Howard Kaloogian of Carlsbad, will be heard in the State Senate Appropriations Committee later this summer before it is considered for final approval.
